

Creative Waikato:

Thank you for the opportunity to submit to the Hauraki District 10 Year Plan.

Key points - Creative Waikato

- Supports opportunities that enable communities to thrive, engage with the district and improve wellbeing.
- Seeks endorsement of the Waikato Arts Navigator strategy (strategy attached) and a commitment to work with Creative Waikato on developing an Arts Action Plan for the Hauraki district
- Seeks commitment of $10,000 per annum (for the next 3 years) to develop an Arts Action Plan and ongoing engagement in the implementation of the Waikato Arts Navigator.

Introduction

We acknowledge the work Council has undertaken to seek feedback from your community and important issues facing the district over the next 10 years.

We also acknowledge that you want your 'place' to have -

- Healthy environments
- Vibrant and safe communities
- Strong economy
- Jobs and training

We commend Council for recognising that it is important to keep investing in projects that help stimulate your local economy and make your public spaces attractive, particularly as your communities recover from pandemic restrictions. Acknowledging also that Council has a balancing act of complying with central government requirements, meeting the needs of their community whilst keeping rates affordable.

We acknowledge investment into ongoing projects for 'community recreation' i.e., Hauraki Rail Trail - $810,000 and new books for libraries - $1.5 m.

More detailed responses on specific projects are outlined below.

Information centres

We support Option 2 – provide information centres in all wards. We agree that information services provide a single location for visitor information and this supports your principle of connected people/tūhono, looking after each other and being proud of your place. In addition to supporting your principle of having a strong economy/ōhanga and helping businesses by providing information to visitors and making them feel welcome.

We note that there is $1.3m tagged for Ngatea Library and service centre development (2021-22) and suggest that a new i-site could be part of this planned development, if this is not already being considered.

There has been a shift toward integration of community hubs as a logical and most effective way of investing and delivering robust community facilities and services. It is also becoming a worldwide trend.¹

¹ 'Integrated Hubs' Hutt City Council 30-year plan.

Often hubs are centred around libraries. Libraries are seen to be neutral and safe places that already attract high foot traffic and are often located in the centre of a suburb or community. They are a key vehicle through which Councils can support the social, cultural, economic, and environmental wellbeing of their diverse communities.² Inclusion of an i-site would enhance coordination across services and improve access to them, build community and improve interaction, and strengthen relationships and collaboration with other agencies.

Hauraki Rail Trail

We support Option 1 – Develop a scenic route alongside the Öhinemuri River. It is ideal to have a clearer and safer route into town, to clearly mark the route and make it safer for cyclists to find their way to boutique shopping, cafes and bakeries on offer in the CBD, but developing a second route into Waihi would also provide a more scenic outlook along Öhinemuri River also linking streetscape work.

The Hauraki Rail Trail is one of the most scenic cycle trails in New Zealand. Biking encourages us to slow down the pace, visit iconic attractions and discover hidden gems often missed by car.³ The two routes would also support your 'place' in having vibrant and safe communities, healthy environments and a strong economy. There should also be consideration in the planning of this to include arts and cultural elements to strengthen the experience and communication more local stories.

Waihi town centre revitalisation

We support Option 1 – revitalise Waihi Town Centre, which supports Council's vision for vibrant and safe communities/Te Oranga pai o te Hapori, by making public spaces fun and exciting, as well as your vision that 'we're proud to say we live here'. It also supports local business and the economy by providing town centres that people want to visit and where locals want to shop.

Upgrading Mackey and Wharf Streets in Paeroa

We also support Option 1 – complete the streetscape (upgrading Mackey and Wharf Streets).

Local authorities can take a leading role or be important partners in sustaining communities through town centre revitalisation.⁴ Councils' roles combine statutory functions such as planning, housing, buildings conservation, public transport and parking with strategic coordination and innovative intervention and economic development with partners. There is great potential here to have the arts featured in the revitalisation of town centres through various means.

Town centres post-covid

One of the biggest lessons post-Covid is an acknowledgement that we have a human desire for connectivity, for culture and meaning – because having a strong sense of place really resonates with people. Town centres have a personality and a pulse. Social contact is a vital part of our wellbeing, so the connectivity that town centres can offer is irreplaceable. It's critical to retain that sense of place, because it matters now, more so than ever before.

Moving forward town centres will need to be create environments where innovating, creative-thinking start-ups and businesses can grow and thrive. A long-term, coordinated approach to town centre revitalisation will be required.⁵ Artists and creative practitioners are particularly skilled in designing and delivering innovative, strategic and cost-effective solutions, and we encourage the Council to look at ways to involve the arts community in your streetscape work and township revitalisation plans.

The benefits of investing in arts and culture - wellbeing outcomes

The arts community are uniquely positioned to deliver outcomes across social, cultural, economic and environmental wellbeing. Providing residents and visitors can benefit many aspects of their wellbeing.

Cultural

- Enabling diverse communities to express and celebrate their cultural identity
- Helping communities to understand and accept cultural differences
- Supporting the revitalisation of Te Reo Māori and Te Ao Māori
- Growing knowledge and value of the stories, values and places of importance to mana whenua
- Increasing understanding of Pasifika communities and Aotearoa's place in the Pacific

Environmental

- Creating spaces and places that people value and want to care for
- Addressing and growing understanding of complex environmental issues
- Building communities' connection to the whenua
- Creating a sense of place, belonging and civic pride

Social

- Creating a sense of belonging, connectedness and greater understanding between communities
- Supporting good physical and mental health outcomes
- Enhancing a community's ability to deal with social challenges
- Growing people's knowledge and providing opportunities to learn

Economic

- Creating jobs and opportunities for local businesses artists and arts organisations, and the aligned sectors of hospitality, tourism, education and manufacturing and providing valuable work skills
- Creating vibrant towns and cities people want to live, work and plan in
- Supporting a stronger sense of connection to place for both residents and visitors by providing and promoting distinctive stories and experiences unique to a rohe
- Supporting recovery from unexpeced shocks or disasters through supporting social cohesian and opportunities for people to share experiences
- Making your town or city an attractive place for tourists.⁶

⁶ Creative New Zealand 'Arts and culture, part of your communities future'

Impact investment funding

The arts are a sector that can build the economy and revitalise communities.

With Council leading the way, there are real opportunities for other partners to use capital for creativity. Partners that value the arts, storytelling, creativity, art lovers, art collectors, and artists themselves are looking for opportunities to align their capital with their priorities.⁷

For businesses it is commercially beneficial; it can help reach new customers, enhance their brand and give them a competitive edge – but also provide a valuable source of creativity, inspiration and innovation.⁸

Pathways to support the arts through investments aren't always obvious. Yet the positive effects are profound. Investing in the creative economy isn't just about benefiting artists. A thriving arts scene often breathes life into communities by attracting new businesses, creating jobs, and drawing traffic. Creative Waikato encourages Council to build on this initiative and invest more - it's not only an investment in art, it's an investment in people.

Waikato Arts Navigator - Regional Arts Strategy

Background

Creative Waikato knows that the work we do has an impact in our region and beyond. This knowledge has been developed through the past 8 years, and is informed by our stakeholders, and our engagement in the community.

Creative Waikato has established connections with the 10 territorial authorities in the Waikato Region. This is further strengthened through the establishment of the Waikato Arts Navigator – a regional arts strategy that is strength-based and provides and understanding of the service provision within the arts and creative sector throughout the region.

Since 2020, Creative Waikato has been talking to Councils about opportunities to utilise arts solutions for post-covid recovery.

Waikato Arts Navigator - Regional Arts Strategy

The Waikato Arts Navigator (WAN) creates a shared framework, including a vision and strategy, for supporting and strengthening our arts and culture in the region. It guides planning and decision making.

In using WAN as our common strategy, we can all track in the same direction and cross-regional efforts will support, complement and strengthen one another.

The vision

The Waikato prospers with diverse and transformative creativity activity

Arts and creativity are integral to who we are as a dynamic, inclusive and transformative region. When arts and creativity is strong and visible, communities are strong and visible.

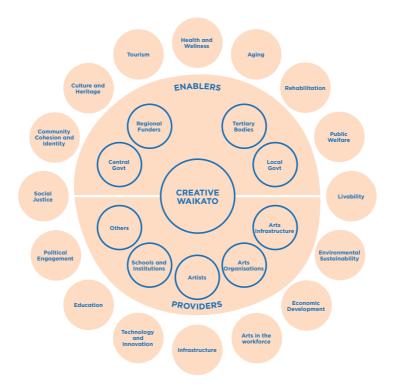

Five threads of the Waikato Arts Navigator

The ultimate objective of WAN is to have all Councils in the region making decisions with the following outcomes in mind. The effect of this would be transformational for the Waikato.

CREATIVE WELLBEING	CREATIVE PROSPERITY	CREATIVE EXPERIENCES	CREATIVE EDUCATION	CREATIVE INNOVATION
Mental, physical & spiritual wellbeing	Creative economies	People experience local, national, international arts	Participatory art projects	Business partnerships
Positive collective & individual identities Create, grow & strengthen communities	Attract & retain residents Tourism opportunities	Community & cultural expression Recreation & interaction	Upskilling creative professionals Community art classes & projects	Informing local government decision making Local problem solving
Inspired responses to challenges such as Covid-19	Positive national perceptions	Community engagement & connection	Youth development	Distinct local expression
Strengthened connection to place	Increased investment from regional & national funders	Local pride	Audience development	Creative export opportunities

Arts as part of our community ecosystem

The arts can be, and should be, embedded in all facets of our community. They feed into a broader understanding of the ecosystem in our community and place. When we collectively use arts-based approaches we move forward in an inclusive and engaging way.

It is important for local government, industry and sector leaders to see artists as a more embedded component within the rest of society. This encourages a collaborative space where the value of the artists in society can be better recognised and utilised. As part of this, it would include a diverse but interconnected ecosystem of arts infrastructure (both hard and soft) that would provide clear pathways for artists and community members at any stage of the journey.

Arts and culture – where are we now

By investing in the creative sector to deliver creative and cultural activities, local government can deliver long-term value to communities. We already know that the arts help improve New Zealand society, make us feel more confident and contribute positively to our economy.

As a region, we value the arts –

- 78% engaged with the arts by attending or participating in at least one art form in the past 12 months, similar to the national average of 80%
- 67% attended at least one arts event or location in the past 12 months, compared to 73% nationally
- 1 in 5 people have attended a Ngā toi Māori (Māori arts) even in the Waikato region in the past 12months
- 56% agree the arts help create connection between different people in the community
- 47% agree the arts activities available in the Waikato give young people an opportunity to express themselves
- 38% agree that the arts and culture are very or extremely important to the region's identity.⁹

There is no doubt that Covid-19 has had a significant impact on the arts and cultural sector. There was an increase in creative activity throughout the lockdown, but in-person particiation (as audience, as performers, as members of groups, societies and classes) ceased, causing major challenges for arts organisations in the Waikato region.

Nationally, in the arts and creative sector, for the 12 month period to March 2021 -

- Sector employment is forecast to decline by 11.7% versus 9.8% across the New Zealand economy
- Sector GDP is forecast to decline by 16.4% versus 8% across the New Zealand economy. This decline is driven by decreased household incomes and tourism spending, and changes in audience behaviours
- About 1/3 of workers are self-employed and many work part-time. Two key sources of secondary employment for creatives hospitality and construction will be the hardest hit sectors.

A 10-year outlook

WAN provides an aspirational vision to see our region become a place with a vibrant arts and cultural sector that thrives with diverse and transformative creative activity. This means that there is the ongoing sustainable development of a wide range of artistic and cultural activities. The arts are valued and celebrated in our communities with robust and flourishing pathways from participation and audience engagement, training and capability development through a range of practical activities culminating in having a sector of creative professionals whose careers are able to live and thrive.

'The most defining aspect of the next age is that it is a creative age – the world will be shaped by creatively minded citizens developing creative processes and ideas'¹⁰

A strategic framework with a long-term view point, recognises that transformational change takes time. There are many elements that must coincide to enable such transformation – hard and soft infrastructure, acts activity, regeneration, supporting artists and arts organisations, valuing creativity and creative thinking. Proactive collaboration and strong advocacy from Councils and other leadership organisations such as philanthropic funders, tertiary organisations, regional leadership organisations, lwi and other regional networks will inevitably empower the broader community to work towards a common vision.

There is an opportunity to continue to make this change with a strategy that is forward in its intent but localised in its action.

Long-term focus areas

Embedding arts and creativity

The extent to which our communities can see the arts in their places and spaces, in the activity around them and in the interactions with others, is a reflection of how embedded the arts and creativity is in their community.

The arts can have a transformative effect in how people see themselves and the world. It contributes hugely to overall wellbeing as well as creating employment. By embedding the arts in our soft infrastructure (people and services) and hard infrastructure (physical assets) we will really start to see transformation.

Ongoing sustainable investment

Investment in the arts is an investment in communities. Investment over an extended period of time allows for a more strategic consideration of how this can be used – to have broader visions for activity because there is more time to plan, opportunity to collaborate with both the arts and cultural sector and wider communities because there is more time and scope to create meaningful relationships.

Collaboration to foster and grow creative activity

To strengthen and grow creative activity, a collaborative approach recognises that all sectors make an important contribution to the cultural wellbeing of our region. These partners form part of an interconnected eco-system that can support a regeneration of ideas, cultivate new connections and realise transformative ideas.

Supporting artistic pathways through capability building

Supporting artists and arts organisations, with capability building, ensures the arts are valued and celebrated in our communities.

With robust and flourishing pathways - from participation and audience engagement, to training and capability development through to a range of practical activities, we will have a sector of creative professionals whose careers are able to thrive.

Recent Creative Waikato initiatives

Elevate programme

Previously known as the PACE (Pathways to Arts and Cultural Employment) Scheme, Creative Waikato secured a two-year pilot programme, now known as 'Elevate', from the Ministry of Social Development. This programme is to support people in the creative arts sector to find or retain creative careers. Participants will be supported to develop business skills and knowledge that will help them to sustain a career in the creative sector. The initial target will be 120 participants (Waikato region) per year for two years.

Huber Social

Creative Waikato is currently working with Huber Social, a social impact agency, to conduct a social impact investigation into the Impact of Arts, Culture and Creativity on our region's wellbeing. The project consists to two distinct parts -

- Regional measurement a collective, data-driven approach to demonstrate the impact of the arts, providing evidence of impact of arts, culture and creativity on the wellbeing of Waikato people
- Community toolkit production of an arts-focused community toolkit to build capability in the sector regionally, empowering and enabling community organisations to understand and articulate the impact of the work they do from a wellbeing perspective.

Engagement with Hauraki District Council

In August 2020, Creative Waikato gave a presentation to Council which introduced the Waikato Arts Navigator framework. We also discussed how Council could provide 'arts solutions for post-covid recovery'.

Having now developed a vision and strategy to support that framework, we look forward to working with Council to develop a localised response in the form of an Arts Action Plan for the Hauraki District.

Working with Council - next steps

WAN investment

Creative Waikato requests commitment through the next LTP cycle of $10,000 per annum investment for development of an Arts Action Plan and further engagement and connection with the Hauraki Council and community with regards to the implementation of the Waikato Arts Navigator.

Arts Action Plan

The purpose of developing an Arts Action Plan, is to help focus Councils' efforts, using the five threads in the WAN to create a common language and purpose that can be used across many areas to align direction and decision-making.

It will also be useful for communities to see themselves in the plan and how the outcomes will affect them.

The Action Plan will help prioritise goals and measurements for how the outcomes in the strategy will be achieved pertinent to what is deemed important within each community. Creative Waikato looks forward to working with Hauraki District Council to develop your own Arts Action Plan.
